To SUBSCRIBERS.

Man of you are owing us for over one year. After the first of January our bills will be discontinued and suit brought for the amount due unless the bills are settled before that time. We hope this notice will meet the eye of every subscriber and induce them to come forward and pay up.

AFFAIRS IN THE KANAWHA VALLEY.—It is said that in the camp under command of Gen. Cox, in Western Virginia, will go into winter quarters in a very few days. Our advance is at Summersville, Nicholas county. The rebels are in some force at Lewisburg, in the adjoining county of Greenbrier, but would probably abandon that point if an advance were made upon them. The report that Cox will push on to Stannion is hardly credible. He has neither the force nor the transportation for such an enterprise, and it is too late in the season to attempt it. The most we can reasonably expect in Western Virginia during the remainder of the campaign will be the thorough expulsion of the rebels, the punishment of the authority of the royal Virginia Government in the counties west of the Alleghenies.

FRIES Below the River.—On Wednesday evening last, as we learn from the Cannon Reporter, a destructive fire broke out in the village of Fries, Perry county, Indiana, seven miles below Cannonton, by which the large warehouse, store, and dwelling of John Hensley, Esq., the store and dwelling of Mr. Joseph Snyder, several stables, and a large amount of other property were destroyed. The fire, we learn, originated in the kitchen of Mr. Hensley's house. On the same evening the express of Mr. Ailans, living in Hancock county, Kentucky, near the river, a mile or two below Cannonton, was burned. The loss of Mr. Adams, we hear, is between four and six thousand dollars.

NEXT REVENGE ARRIVED.—The winter running arrangements on the Louisville, New Albany, and Chicago Railroad went into effect yesterday. Belligerent the Chicago Express train will leave New Albany at ten o'clock A. M., and the St. Louis night express at ten o'clock P. M. The trains overland will make close connections with all the Western roads for the North, South, East, and West.

IT will be seen by reference to our Bank Note List that there has been a very material advance in the value of the notes of the three leading Tennessee banks. For example, our bankers offered to take them yesterday at one per cent discount. In St. Louis the brokers were paying three per cent premium. This description of currency is available for the purchase of cotton at the South.

THEATRE.—This evening will be the second appearance of Mr. Donaldson, the rope-walker, and Mr. Gilbert, the pantomimist. The former will ascend from the stage to the gallery in a saek, blindfolded. Two pantomimes, the Schoolmaster and Roquinet's Misfits, will be produced, and as a prelude the comedy of Day after the Wedding will be acted.

About two hundred and sixty linen and cotton sheets, belonging to the hospitals in New Albany, were stolen last week. Suspicion fastened upon a German woman residing up town. The house was at once searched and two hundred of the missing sheets recovered.

AN artillery company, quartered opposite this city, in the vicinity of the old "Government House," in the lower suburbs of Jeffersonville, fired a salute last evening in honor of General Morgan's Cumberland Gap army upon their arrival by river from above.

SMALL POX.—This loathsome disease, as we learn from the New Albany Ledger, is prevailing in several localities in Southern Indiana. At Martinsville, Morgan county, it is so bad that the Circuit Court adjourned last week on account of its prevalence.

CADET ORDN.

TEXAS.—An indiscriminate murder of loyal men, it appears, is going on in Kerr, Kendall, Kimball, and Gillespie counties, Texas, by order of the authorities, and the N. Y. Tribune says, that in the accounts of the seventy-five Texan refugees who recently reached New Orleans are correctly stated by its correspondents, the rebel soldiers in Western Texas, under directions to take no prisoners in these loyal counties, are putting every male inhabitant to the sword, and laying waste the whole country. The four counties in question have been proclaimed a state in a state of rebellion against the Confederate States, and his soldiers are bound to a work of general carnage and rapine. Despairing of the conversion of the people by peaceful measures to the cause of the rebellion, this savage officer carries his point with fire and the sword, determined to extirpate the community he cannot proselyte. The refugees in New Orleans say that their friends and neighbors who have been in his command, are to be produced to General Heribert in a state of rebellion, and that the women and child be sold together.

GEN. BRADBURY AND FIFTEEN SLAVES.
LOUISVILLE, KY., Nov. 17th, 1862.

In a despatch from Washington, D. C., I receive the following:

Washington, Nov. 15.

Information having been received, Nov. 14, in an economic point of view, and, in consideration of the growing scarcity of the materials used for making paper, it becomes necessary for everybody to assume the office of a domestic rag-picker. Rags enter into the manufacture of all kinds of writing, book, and news paper, and no substance has yet been discovered to take their place. As the supply is in no way proportioned to the demand, the scarcity of rags has been the material cause of an advance in the price of paper of all sorts, fully thirty per cent within the last month. Economic persons may therefore be most advantageously occupied in saving every little scrap that comes in their way. Everybody is interested in this, for, although it may not be a very lucrative employment, it will certainly prove a great matter of convenience to our men in facilitating the means of friendly epistolary communication, and affording the high intellectual gratification of reading books and newspapers. If every family would save all the little bits of cast off garments which are generally wasted, and go to the trouble of saving the rag-bag when filled to the paper maker, it would be the end amply compensated.

We have said that the price of paper had increased thirty per cent during the last month, but the New York Times says that printing papers of all kinds have risen fifty per cent within the past three months while the tax on paper, and advertisements, and everything else connected with the business, still further increased the price. The rise in paper is moreover still going on, and it is due to the fact that cotton is still to be had. The rise in paper is not easy to say where it is. What the Jeff Davis government has done to the paper market is not to be known, but it is evident that the paper market is in a much more difficult position than the cotton market.
